Robustness of detection of significant haemodynamic changes during tonic contraction in canine cutaneous veins. Significant transient changes in cutaneous blood flow and popliteal venous pressure (PVP) were recorded during phasic and tonic calf muscle contractions in anaesthetized dogs. To assess the repeatability and stability of these haemodynamic changes, identical sequences of phasic and tonic contractions were repeated in seven different animals. Tonic and phasic contractions were evoked by electrical stimulation of the cutaneous nerves at frequencies between 2 and 5 Hz, and the duration was 2, 10 or 20 s. Transient reductions in the rate of increase of PVP and percentage reduction of calf blood flow (Qb) were consistently detected during both tonic and phasic contractions. In addition, Qb in 10 s tonic contractions at 5 Hz was reduced to approximately one-third of its initial value. The percentage reduction in Qb and the rate of change of PVP were greater during 5 s tonic contractions compared with 2 s tonic contractions. The percentage reductions in Qb and PVP during both tonic and phasic contractions increased with increasing contractile frequency. However, the reduction in Qb was always greater than the reduction in PVP. In four of five animals studied, during the tonic and phasic contractions, the percentage reduction in Qb (but not PVP) tended to decrease with increasing frequency. Our data indicate that significant changes in calf blood flow and PVP are consistently detected during both tonic and phasic contractions in dogs, but the magnitude of the response is dependent on the frequency of the contraction. (ABSTRACT TRUNCATED AT 250 WORDS) Q: What's the quickest way to get to the area where the Treant Clan's High Priests live? When you start the questline from the beginning (right after the first cut scene where you go to another room, where the main quest begins), which way would you suggest? Going directly to the High Priest's house seems to be the best option, but there are a few roads that may 595f342e71
